

October 8, 2012
Kettering University
Flint, Michigan

Multi-Media Presentation

for

STEAM COFFIN

Captain Moses Rogers and The Steamship Savannah
Break the Barrier

by

John Laurence Busch

Historian and author John Laurence Busch will attempt to re-calibrate your mind before showing why the proposition of making the first crossing of the Atlantic Ocean on a "steamship" was met with a mixture of skepticism and fear.

When: 6:00 PM October 8, 2012.

Where: Kettering University, Flint, Michigan.

The Savannah is more than a "steamship."
She is the first example of globalized high technology in history.

Praise for STEAM COFFIN:

"Busch's supremely readable account...represents the creation of a long-needed missing piece of maritime history...It may properly be termed a page-turner, and is strongly recommended."
— (mt) Marine Technology Magazine

"A beautifully written and engaging narrative...John Laurence Busch has made a major contribution to American maritime history with this fine book."
— Naval War College Review

Praise for the Presentation:

"You offer what is exceptional in an historical presentation: the reasons 'why' history matters."
— James Mackin, Society for Industrial Archeology

"I believe there were more questions from the audience than I've seen at any meeting in a long time."
—Edward Ecock, American Society of Mechanical Engineers

Visit www.steamcoffin.com for more reviews and background...